Since 1993 Discoverer has continued to produce only the highest quality products, with our Diamond Blades this is no exception. These are produced specifically for the mineral core industry and have been proven time and again as a premium blade that lasts longer, cuts faster and highly likely to be the lowest cost per metre blade on today's market.

Discoverer is so confident in our diamond blades and their consistency, due to the use of state of the art technology, combined with the finest quality diamond in our manufacturing process, that we offer a full no hassle guarantee.

Due to variances in rock types globally we recommend purchasing a minimum of two different hardness blades when trialling the blades for the first time. Due to the wonderful and sometimes surprisingly varying nature of our planet Earth, having the right hardness blade can make all the difference.
